One After Attending Church is Seized and Dies About 60 Hours Afterwards.

Mrs. Maggie Lewis, wife of A. P. Lewis, of Cumberland township, died on last Wednesday morning after a very short illness. She was a member of St. Francis Xavier church, attending that church on Sunday morning, May 5. In the afternoon of same day she became ill, rapidly sinking until the end. Her age was 58 years, 6 mos. and 3 days. The funeral was held on Saturday morning from St. Francis Xavier church, mass of requiem by Rev. Father T. J. Crotty, interment in Catholic cemetery here. In 1890 she married William Bender and moved to Waynesboro where five years later her husband died. CHEMICAL FIRE ENGINE

PUBLIC SUBSCRIPTION FOR ONE COMMENDED BY COUNCIL.

Sewer Will be Extended out West Middle Street to Accommodate Citizens.

Regular monthly meeting of the Town Council was held on last Tuesday evening with the following members present: Culp, Wiernan, Foutz, Wisotzkey, Tawney and Beck, with President of Board Gilbert presiding.

The Firemen's Committee presented the following petition:

The undersigned committee appointed by the Gettysburg Fire Department to solicit subscription for the purchase of a chemical engine which will become the property of the Town Council, respectfully call your attention to the fact that a chemical engine is a necessity for any well equipped fire department, both as to the method of operation and its effectiveness as a fire extinguisher, and they request that this movement may meet with the express approval of the Town Council as well as all the encouragement they can give it in any manner.

On motion of Mr. Foutz, seconded by Mr. Tawney the action was approved by Council.

A petition signed by the thirteen taxpayers in the second ward was presented and asked that Council replace the gas light at the corner of Water street and Woodward avenue that was lately replaced by an electric light. The former light was more satisfactory in every way. Light Committee was instructed to have the present light lowered in order to remove objections.

A communication was read from the Board of Health concerning some bad water drains and was accepted by Council.

The Keystone Light, Heat and Power Company asked for leniency in the time the lights were out during repairs at their plant and a reduction was agreed to from the bill for lights out.

Allan B. Plank, Sewer Superintendent, made his report for the past year in reference to the borough sewer. After a lengthy discussion it was decided to have the Borough Attorney prepare a blank for the sewer inspection reports.

President Gilbert offered the following resolution: Resolved, That the Finance Committee be instructed and is hereby authorized to assign or satisfy the judgment of $3,300 in favor of the borough of Gettysburg against the property of L. D. Miller known as the Eichelberger fund and that $1,000 of the proceeds of said judgment be placed in the town treasury to the credit of the special fund and the balance to the credit of the general fund and that the said monies so placed be treated as a temporary loan, the interest of which at 5 per cent. shall thereafter or as long as said loan remains be paid on the 1st day of November of each and every year to the Finance Committee and applied to the charity use as provided by the Eichelberger will.

The idea of this resolution was simply to have lien transferred, that the money be available to the borough at any time and was deemed a better way to provide necessary funds than by paying discount on loans. The resolution seconded by Mr. Tawney, was unanimously adopted.

Wm. Arch McClean, Esq., appeared for Mrs. Blocher and Mr. Kepner in the matter of sewer connections to their properties. On motion of Mr. Foutz, seconded by Mr. Beck, it was decided to extend sewer from West Middle street to Hay street to accommodate these properties.

Mr. Tawney asked for and was given authority to put new crossing at Crosta property, Baltimore St., and one at the Weity property, York St.

Mr. Tawney, Chairman of Highway Committee, reported 10 carloads of stone bought and used on the streets.

The matter of repairs to the engine house was held over.

Mr. Beck moved that the two policemen each be donated ten dollars for new uniforms, which carried.

MAY ARGUMENT COURT

Decides Car Tax to Remain at $50 a Car. Pole Tax to be rectified, a pole.

President Judge Mr. Swape and Associate Judges Geo. H. Trostle and C. D. Smith transacted the following business at the regular May Argument Court on Monday.

The Court filed an opinion in the case of Borough of Gettysburg vs. Gettysburg Transit Company. It is the case in which under agreement on both sides the court heard the testimony for purpose of deciding whether $50 annual car tax was an unreasonable tax for inspection of cars. The Court after a finding of facts and comment on the law finds that the tax is not unreasonable and directs a verdict to be entered in favor of the plaintiff and against the defendant for $151.

The court heard the case of the Pa. Telephone Co., vs. Borough of Gettysburg. The plaintiff had asked the court under a recent law to fix a reasonable pole tax for their 159 poles in the borough in place of the 50 cent tax on each pole fixed by the borough ordinance. The testimony showed that a competent inspector could in one day's time inspect every pole. The court at the conclusion of the testimony decided that under the recent decision of Judge Sadler of Carlisle and other decisions along a similar line the pole tax should be 10 cents on each pole.

CHANCES OF EYLER'S CASE

ARE BEING INJURED IN THE HOUSE OF HIS FRIENDS.

Sentiment for Commutation of Sentence Has Been Gone After in a Poor Way.

Petitions are being circulated for signatures for presentation to the Board of Pardons asking that the sentence of death of Wm. Eyler on June 25 be commuted to imprisonment for life.

One of these petitions was presented at the office of the Compiler last week and signature to same requested and a refusal given to the signing of any such petition couched in the language used.

It was explained that the petition was prepared in Emmitsburg and the first dozen names were citizens of that place. The name at the head of the list was that of Edward L. Rowe. He was the party who sat beside William Hersh, Esq., during the progress of the trial. This petition containing the names of a few citizens of our town illustrated the harm that can be done one in the house of friends, for a paragraph in the petition would certainly do the prisoner more harm than good before the Board of Pardons.

In this paragraph the trial of William Eyler was styled a "miscarriage of justice" and trial and verdict was reflected upon and those who signed their names to the rather long petition could not have read it.

To call the trial a "miscarriage of justice" would not only be untrue but could do no good. The man was carefully and fairly tried and practically every ruling of the Court was in his favor so that full justice could be done him. The Supreme Court of the State has declared that the man was properly convicted of murder in the first degree. Any such statement would only do the prisoner more harm than good before the Board of Pardons, by either provoking a smile on account of its hot air character or might be resented because of its reflection upon a trial which the Supreme Court has declared to have been just, fair and proper.

It is usual also to ask the Court, District Attorney and jurors to sign such petitions and it is impossible to conceive how these officers would see their way clear to sign a petition for commutation and stultify themselves by saying the trial they had a part in was a "miscarriage of justice," and to ask them to sign a petition not so worded and to have in existence another reflecting upon them would be unjust and unfair to the Court trying the prisoner.

It is the opinion of the Compiler that every petition asking for commutation of the death sentence to life imprisonment and calling the trial a "miscarriage of justice" should be recalled and destroyed and a new start made with new petitions. The Compiler offers this suggestion because of the prevalent opinion that seems to be favorable to a commutation. Of the very large number of men who have been heard to discuss the matter the great majority say he should be imprisoned and not hanged.

This opinion is no reflection on the trial here. Those who hold to the opinion believe he was properly tried and convicted. They also recognize that the degree of drunkenness of the prisoner is no excuse for murder in Pennsylvania.

The sentiment however grows out of the peculiar circumstances of the case and conditions of the man. There is a total absence of cold bloodedness and wickedness of heart in the case. He is woefully ignorant, so much so as to be harmless when sober. Though drunkenness is no excuse for the crime it is realized that his drinking had everything to do with making him capable of committing murder. He has no history of being old in misdeeds. There was nothing of the hardened criminal or lawless desperado about him. He had been a hard working, industrious, densely ignorant young man and by the whiskey capable of taking the life of another. He has a wife who has borne a good name and prisoner has become a father since the commission of his act. These circumstances and conditions have created a sentiment for commutation, and it is altogether possible if the case was presented to the Board of Pardons from this point of view, Court, officers and jurors might be willing to further this sentiment and the case of the prisoner given some hopeful aspects.

THE GIBRALTAR ROCK

MAGNIFICENTLY TYPIFIES THE CROUCHING LION.

Fortress--Moorish Castle--the Town are Most Interesting Places to Visit.

Jan. 14.—I have seen the crouching lion and have a mighty respect for the power of England in this quarter of the world. We reached Gibraltar early in the morning and when the mist cleared away and when we got our first glimpse of the mighty rock, all my ideas of it vanished into thin air.

I have heard and read that people were disappointed in it, that after all they did not find it such a formidable looking place. That is a great mistake. The first impression I had was one of grim strength and a sleeping lion indeed. How any one can be other than impressed that way I do not know. Looking up from the boat, the town at the foot of the rock seems to say "we know we are safe, one look at our protector will be enough."

The rock rises up in some places in bold cliffs, in father in crags and shelves, on the top is the signal station and wireless telegraph station; all over among the crags and shelves are masked batteries which cannot be seen from the water. No one is allowed there or inside the fortifications. In driving around the base one can get behind fortifications that from the front are most beautiful to look at, covered with vines and shrubbery one would never dream what engines of destruction lurked at one's very elbow. Very few guns are to be seen except right along the water batteries. Of course one falls over a Tommy at every step. They have a wonderful dock and dry docks.

The old Spanish gateways still stand. To get into the town one passes through two of these, the archway twenty or more feet deep, and the iron doors monsters of thickness and strength in one wall, and the same only wooden in the other. And what a heterogeneous mass of humanity is constantly flowing through them! Tommies, tourists, Spaniards, bare legged Moors and others. I hope a picture I took will be good and show up the Spanish coat of arms.

The oldest Moorish Castle in Spain stands high on a bluff and even in its ruins it looks a stronghold. Going through its dark windings one fancies all sorts of ghostly sounds. From there one can look over into Spain across the neutral ground which is mined with wires leading to the foot so that a finger on the button would cause a deep long pit where now every thing is green and lovely.

The streets are very narrow and run any old way, one fancies one is in a blind alley, not only because there is a house or a blank wall seemingly closing the end, but on account of the rank odors of old plaster, garlic and a mixture of everything. The streets are all paved, cobblestones mostly, some have no sidewalks, others only on one side.

In the square one can buy anything in the way of trash. The stuff is either spread on the ground or on rough stands and every one screaming at one to buy. The shops are dingy little places but some mighty nice things for sale. The women who knew got some beautiful things very cheap from the Moors. Of course they ask two or three prices. For instance a spangled scarf costing in New York seventeen to twenty dollars can be had here for five, they will begin by asking anything around twelve and pat themselves on the back for getting five for it.

There is a cave half way up the rock where fifteen thousand men can hide and the mouth cannot be seen from the water. Needless to say it has been ventilated and made ready in case of need. The whole place is one mighty engine of war, and like a battleship can be cleared for action in a few minutes. I have no doubt those big guns will carry to Africa. The shore seems near enough but that may be owing to the clear atmosphere. In the bay were a number of war vessels, among them the Dreadnaught the largest battleship in the world.

We sailed away at sunset and it was beautiful. The dark blue water tinged with gold and the soft light on the sleeping lion dispelled a little of its grimness. As we went round into the sea and saw the back of the rock, I was surprised. It rises out of the sea almost straight up to the top. Nothing human could ever get up that wall of granite.

We went into the markets. On one side of the street not far from the gates is the market where one gets meat, fruit and vegetables. On the other side is the fowl and egg market kept by the Moors. It is hard to say which are more odiferous—birds or people.

I bought oranges at one penny each and beat myself because later another woman came along and they yelled at her "a shilling a basket," twenty-five in the basket, same as mine. She said "I'll give you a shilling for two" and they almost threw them at her in their haste to give them for that price. I reckon they thought me an easy mark. Everything is "So much lady." "No I don't want it." "How much will you give lady?" It is great to hear the Spanish and the Moorish women bargaining.

Jan. 15.—The sea is like glass and such a beautiful blue, indeed there is no blue like the blue of the Mediterranean. We passed the statue of Columbus erected on the spot from which he sailed on his voyage of discovery. With much love,

MARY KATHARINE

TORTURING PAIN.

Half This Man's Sufferings Would Have Killed Many a Person, But Doan's Cured Him.

Thousands of grateful people are telling every day how Doan's Kidney Pills cured them of distressing and dangerous kidney and bladder troubles.

Yet other thousands are suffering every day from these same ills. Why? They are either very negligent or very skeptical. Neglect of kidney disorders leads to dropsy, diabetes, Bright's disease and other fatal diseases.

Sincere, honest testimony like the following should convince every skeptic.

A. C. Sprague, stock dealer, of Normal, Ill., writes: "For two whole years I was doing nothing but buying medicines to cure my kidneys. I do not think that any man ever suffered as I did and lived. The pain in my back was so bad that I could not sleep at night. I could not ride a horse and sometimes was unable even to ride in a car. My condition was critical when I sent for Doan's Kidney Pills. I used three boxes and they cured me. Now I can go anywhere and do as much as anybody. I sleep well and feel no discomfort at all."

A. C. SPRAGUE.

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Sprague will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers; price, fifty cents per box.

A Small Horror. The worst is one small horror. Astonishingly strong, apparently fearless and a persevering as an ant, when once he has settled to the task of a rabbit that particular bunny is indeed in grave peril. The rabbit seems to know it, too, and the knowledge to half paralyze him, for he seldom attempts the one saving chance—a straightaway, long sustained run at top speed. And the end of the patient if we do not wait the hour of pursuit! 'Tis indeed bloody murder. The fiend within angel garb finally toils within deadly distance. There is a snakelike stroke, most likely aimed at the big vein near the butt of the rabbit's ear. Once there, the brute sticks leechlike to the blood sucking, while the trembling, wailing rabbit totters aimlessly about till its drained body falls limply to pay its tax to mother earth.—Edwin Sanders in Outing Magazine.

Daniel O'Connell. After a dinner at Lord Dungarvan's, Lady Morgan writes in her diary, I met the reprobable Dan O'Connell. Dan is not brilliant in private life, not even agreeable. He is mild, silent, unassuming, apparently absorbed and an utter stranger to the give and take charm of good society. I said so to Lord Clanricarde, who replied: "If you knew how I found him this morning! His hall, the very steps of his door, crowded with his clientele. He had a word or a written order for each, then hurried off to the law courts, thence to the Improvement society and was the guest here today. Two hours before he was making that clever but violent speech to Mr. La Touche, and now no wonder that he looks like an extinct volcano."

A Curious Epitaph. The following epitaph is inscribed from a tomb in the vicinity of Port Royal, Jamaica: "Here lieth the body of Louis Chabot, Esq., a native of Montpellier, in France, which country he left on account of the revocation. He was swallowed up by the earthquake which occurred at that place in 1632 but by the great providence of God was, by a second shock, flung into the sea, where he continued swimming until rescued by a boat and lived forty years afterward."

When You Want Pure White Lead, Get It. Probably there is no other article of commerce subjected to so much adulteration and misrepresentation as White Lead. Out of 18 brands of "White Lead" recently analyzed by the Government Agricultural Experiment Station of North Dakota, 5 contained absolutely no White Lead, 5 less than 15% of White Lead, and only 3 over 90% of White Lead. There is, however, a way to be certain of the purity and genuineness of the White Lead you buy, and that is to send for—

A Square Deal

Is assured you when you buy Dr. Pierce's family medicines—for all the ingredients entering into them are printed on the bottle-wrappers and their formulas are attested under oath as being complete and correct. You know just what you are paying for and that the ingredients are gathered from Nature's laboratory, being selected from the most valuable native medicinal roots found growing in our American forests and while potent to cure are perfectly harmless even to the most delicate woman or child. Not a drop of alcohol enters into their composition.
A much better agent is used both for sweetening and preserving the medicinal principles used in them, viz., pure refined glycerine. This agent possesses intrinsic medicinal properties of its own, being a most valuable antiseptic and anti-inflammatory, nutritive and soothing demulcent.

Glycerine plays an important part in the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia and weak stomach, attended by sour risings,
heartburn, foul breath, coated tongue,
poor appetite, gnawing feeling in stomach, biliousness and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels.

Bosches curing all the above distressing affections, the "Golden Medical Discovery"
is a specific for all diseases of the mucous membranes, as catarrh, whether of the nasal passages or of the stomach, bowels or pelvic organs. Even in its operative stages it will yield to this covering medicine if its use be persevered in. In Catarrh of the Nasal Passages, it is well
while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" for the necessary consideration of treatment, to cleanse the passages twice a day or three times a day with Dr. Sage's Nasal Remedy. This thorough course of treatment generally cures the worst cases.

In coughs and hoarseness caused by bronchial, throat and lung affections, except consumption in its advanced stages, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most efficient medicine, especially in those obstinate, hanging coughs caused by irritation and congestion of the bronchial mucous membranes. The "Discovery" is not so good for acute coughs arising from sudden colds, nor must it be expected to cure consumption in its advanced stages, no medicine will do that—but for all the obstinate, chronic coughs, which if not checked, or badly treated, lead up to consumption, it is the best medicine that can be taken.

The Peculiar Frigate Bird.

The frigate bird is a native of tropical seas and rarely comes to land except during the breeding season. It has the habit, unusual among sea birds, of nesting in trees, large companies of them building together in the tops of the tallest mangroves. Like the cormorant and the albatross, the frigate bird lays but one egg. It lives by fishing and also by robbing other fishers of what they have caught. In plumage the frigate bird is brownish black, with metallic green and purple reflections. The dilatable throat sac in the male is of bright scarlet, while the female, of a duller general hue, has a white patch on the breast. It is a beautiful sight to watch one or more floating overhead against the deep blue sky, the long forked tail alternately opening and shutting like a pair of scissors and the head, which is, of course, kept to windward, inclined from side to side, while the wings are to all appearance fixedly extended, though the breeze may be constantly varying in strength and direction.

An Egyptian Custom.

More than 1,000 years ago Herodotus observed a remarkable custom in Egypt. At a certain season of the year the Egyptians went into the desert, cut off branches from the wild palm and, bringing them back to their gardens, waved them over the flowers of the date palm. Why they performed this ceremony they did not know, but they knew that if they neglected it the date crop would be poor or wholly lost. Herodotus offers the quaint explanation that along with these branches there came from the desert certain flies possessed of a "vivifying virtue," which somehow lent an exuberant fertility to the dates. But the true rationale to the incantation is now explained. Palm trees, like human beings, are male and female. The garden plants, the date bearers, were females, the desert plants were males, and the waving of the branches over the females meant the transference of the fertilizing pollen from the one to the other.

The Dangers of the Mines.

Great and mystically dreadful is the earth from a mine's depth. Man is in the implacable grasp of nature. It has only to tighten slightly and he is crushed like a bug. His loudest shriek of agony would be as impotent as his final moan to bring help from that fair land that lies like heaven over his head. There is an insidious silent enemy in the gas. If the huge fanwheel on the top of the earth should stop for a brief period there is certain death, and a panic more terrible than any occurring where the sun has shone ensues down under the tons of rock. If a man may escape the gas, the floods, the "squeeze" of falling rock, the cars shooting through little tunnels, the precarious elevators, the hundred perils, there usually comes to him an attack of "miner's asthma" that slowly racks and shakes him into the grave.—Stephen Crane.

Ptolemy's Big Boat.

Ptolemy (Philopator) was fond of building big boats. One of these is said to have been 420 feet long, 57 feet broad and 72 feet deep from the highest point of the stern. This vessel had four rudders or what some would call steering oars, as they were not fastened, each forty-five feet long. She carried 4,000 rowers, besides 3,000 marines, a large body of servants under her decks and stores and provisions. Her oars were fifty-seven feet long, and the handles were weighted with lead. There were 2,000 rowers on a side, and it is supposed that these were divided into five banks. That this extraordinary vessel ever put to sea is doubted, but that she was launched and used at times, if only for display, several historians are agreed.

Getting Round It.

A famous mountaineer said of mountain climbing at a dinner in Brooklyn: "Peaks that seem inaccessible may be climbed by turns and twists. Mountain climbing is a question of getting around the bad places. Getting around your difficulty—that is the secret of mountain climbing. Liszt, the great musician, had the ability to get around things; hence I am sure he'd have made a good mountaineer. Once at a dinner Liszt's hostess cried in a horrified voice that there were thirteen at table.

"Don't let that alarm you, madam," said Liszt, with a reassuring smile, "I'll eat for two."

If Lion Puts and Horse Pulls.

If a lion and a strong horse were to pull in opposite directions, the horse would pull the lion backward with comparative ease. But if the lion were bitted behind the horse and facing in the same direction and were allowed to exert his strength in backing he could easily pull the horse down upon his haunches or drag him across the ring, so much greater is his strength when exerted backward from the hind legs than in forward pulling.—Chambers' Journal.

The Nursery of Statesmen.

A debating society in which the members are really keen is an institution of immense value in a school or a house. Success in the school debating society is frequently the beginning of a great career.—O. C. Williams in "The Captain."

Then the Mercury Froze.

"I think London is a lovely place for a honeymoon. Don't you, dear?" "Yes, darling," he replied in an abstracted manner. "I shall always come here in the future."—Stray Stories.

Some evils admit of consolations, but there are no comforters for dyspepsia and the toothache.—Balzac.

You cannot make it go by shaking it. When the bowels are constipated you can disturb them with cathartics but, like the watch, they will not be able to do their allotted work until they are put into proper condition to do it.

One cannot mend a delicate piece of mechanism by violent methods, and the use of pills, salts, castor-oil and strong cathartic medicines is the violent method. The use of the herb tonic laxative, Lane's Family Medicine is the method adopted by intelligent people.

Captain Dreams.

(Copyright, 1907, by E. C. Parcells.)

While I was in hospital at Madras a Hindu sailor who had a cot next to mine was visited by a sea captain with whom he had served. I overheard much of their conversation. The Hindu family died.

The name of the captain was Draines. A few weeks later people were calling him Draines. He was a good sailor, but poor in pocket. The native had told him a secret before he died.

The father of the dying native had been a seaman in the great mutiny, and when the rebellion had been stamped out he had to go into hiding and live his last days in the jungle. When it became apparent that the English would conquer, a move was made by all the wealthy Indians to save their fortunes. The father was attached to the force of the nabob of Mysore and with certain others removed treasure to the amount of a million dollars from that province to the coast and thence by sailing craft to one of the Laccadives. There it was buried. The father could not tell the son what particular island it was, nor did he know whether the treasure was recovered after the war. He was wounded in battle soon after his return to the coast, and when peace came he became a fugitive to save himself. The treasure was taken ashore at night and deposited in a cave.

That was the story told to the son, and that was the son who told it to the captain. The story was over twenty years old then. You will ask why the son hadn't made a try for the treasure. In the first place, for twenty years after the war the English were very vigilant about such things, but claimed a big share of whatever the natives found. Again, the son was poor in pocket and distrustful of his fellow men. If he had had the money to fit out an expedition, he would have had to take five or six persons into his confidence, and the chance of his being murdered and despoiled was good indeed. Had he gone to the owner of any craft and offered half he would have been laughed at. He had simply come to the conclusion that the island was one of the Laccadive group, and he could not say that the treasure had not been removed years before. He simply hung on to his secret and waited, and he was waiting yet when he was stabbed in a street brawl.

Captain Draines at once determined to try for the treasure. He had to have money, and he had to have men, and in this way it came to be known that he was off after a million. No one knew whether he was bound, but everywhere he showed up he was ridiculed and laughed at. Before he left port he was spoken of as Captain Dreams. He resigned from his ship, chartered a native craft and selected a crew to be depended on. He fitted the craft to fight as well as to sail, and he got away from Madras in the night and was out of sight of the coast next morning. He had his all in the enterprise, and it was a case of make or break with him.

The run down to the group was made, but that was only the beginning. Some of the islands are only sand bars or rocky islets, while others are four or five miles in circumference and heavily wooded. They had to be searched in rotation. The craft would be anchored in the channel between two islands while parties landed on either to search for a cave. This searching took up lots of time. At the end of three months only eight of the islands had been explored, and the men were ready for mutiny. The provisions were gone, and a hundred different disappointments had soured the tempers of the men. They agreed to search the ninth island, but would go no farther. If nothing was found there, the captain must head for the coast, even if he had to go in chains.

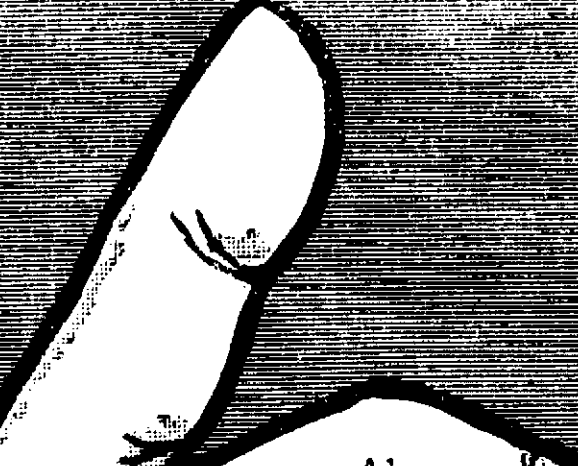

Fortune stands by some men in strange ways. Half the island had been explored when there came a great gale, and a French ship that had been dismasted and abandoned at sea came driving in. She furnished plenty of provisions, and it was seen that the salvage of her cargo would give every man a good thing, treasure or no treasure.

The next day after the wreck drove ashore Captain Dreams set out to gather some wild fruit. In their search the men had discovered no animals of any sort. The captain had not gone forty miles when a goat sprang out of the bushes and raced away. He turned at a tangent to follow her and ten minutes later found himself at the base of a rocky cliff with a cave entrance five feet above the ground. It was the nabob's treasure house, and the treasure was there. He had a portion of it with him when he returned to the men. Just what the treasure amounted to in dollars and cents no one outside of the treasure party ever learned, but the cargo taken from the wreck sold for $40,000 at the Portuguese port of Goa.

Captain Dreams was ready to sail away and only waiting for the tide when a native craft with a crew of thirty fishermen and shell gatherers appeared and undertook to despoil him. But for his muskets they would have done so, and his craft would never have been heard of more. In the fight he inflicted a loss of five men killed and sailed triumphantly away. The English government heard of his find and tried to bring him to the mark, but the Portuguese governor refused to deliver him up, and after a year he sailed for France and may be living in that country today. Ninety-nine of the hunts for buried treasure have turned out costly disappointments, but this was an exception. The treasure was there, and it was secured.

THE WAY TO STOP AN AUTO.

Vinegar Branch and Stone Jug,
May 13. An amusing incident recently occurred on the State road. Two men were driving along in a buggy
when they saw an automobile coming toward them. They signaled the driver to stop but he kept right on coming at full speed. One of the occupants of the buggy then jumped out and picked up a stone about the size of a baby's head, which had quite a persuasive effect, as the driver slowed up and the buggy passed by in safety.
Very little corn has been planted in this vicinity, the recent cold and wet weather having kept the farmers back with their work.

The grain fields do not present so promising an appearance as they did in the early spring, the cold wet weather and high winds having done
them much injury.

North American's Big Supplement

For 50th. Birthday of Baseball.

The first convention of base ball clubs, that made the game national and fixed the rules under which the sport became the most popular of all games, met just fifty years ago, in 1867.

To celebrate this event, the North American, Philadelphia's greatest base ball paper, will issue a special anniversary baseball supplement next Sunday.

The special features include an article by the famous old-time diamond star, Al Reach, who was playing ball when the convention was held, and compares the old baseball with the new; a color page with superb group
photographs of the Phillies and Athletics, the first of 1907; listing and fielding averages of the American,
National, Tri-State Leagues, a special story by George M. Graham on the Tri-State's history and some of the men who have wrought its success;
a page of school baseball, another of college baseball, with especial reference to Pennsylvania institutions.
P. O. M., Delaware Valley, Reading
City and other leagues, together with donors of independents and amateurs
throughout Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey.

The supplement will contain several hundred pictures and the names of not less than 14,000 players and fans, making an unequalled souvenir and baseball reference guide.

BARLOW'S GROWTH.

Barlow, May 13.—It is amusing
sometimes to note the change in a man. A destitute young lady arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm.
Rose on last Thursday and Wm. smilingly admits he hadn't the heart to turn her out, so she will become a permanent resident of his home. The same disease caught his neighbor,
Jacob A. Boyd—a young boy.

Grain fields since the recent rains
have put on a healthy and thriving condition.

On Saturday evening May 4, the many friends and neighbors of Miss Dorothy Boyd, youngest daughter of Mrs. Geo. Boyd, of near this place, assembled at the house of Mrs. Geo.
Boyd, the occasion being in honor of Miss Dorothy's 15th birthday anniversary. After several hours of vocal and instrumental music and a general good time, all were invited to the table
which was loaded with good things, such as ice cream, cakes, candies, bananas, oranges, etc. Miss Dorothy was the recipient of many handsome and useful gifts. After a reasonable hour her friends returned to their homes well pleased.

Those present were: Mrs. Geo.
Boyd, Misses Dorothy and Rosie Boyd, Katie Weikert, Lucy, Bertha and Edna Kuhn, Florence Shultz, Nellie
Boyd, Messrs. Wm. Baker, Jacob,
Mervin and Russel Boyd, Joseph
Kuhn, Lloyd Bream, Roy Walker,
Clarence Fair.

BUILDING A NEW BARN.

Buchanan Valley, May 13.—Peter Musser is building a new barn this spring.

Miss Annie Knouse of Gettysburg, spent a few days with her parents
Mr. and Mrs. Frank Knouse of this place.

Edward J. Kohl had his index finger on his left hand badly hurt while sawing lath last Friday at James Cole's Mill.

Thomas J. Cole brother of James Cole who is engaged at the carpenter trade in Pittsburg came near being killed on a building by a brick falling from above upon him on the scaffolding where he was at work. He fell unconscious on the scaffold and just escaped a fall of a hundred feet down from the scaffolding. He was taken to a hospital and remained unconscious for quite a while but has recovered.

Mrs. Abner Kuhn spent several days near Cashtown at her son's, Emory Kuhn.

Jane McDermoth has gone to Mc-Sherrystown to her uncle James Devine to make her home with them.

Edward Woodward has quit work in the shops in Waynesboro and returned to his home.

FRUIT BUDS SAFE YET.

Arendtsville, May 13. The fruit buds of all kinds except the early cherries are safe yet.

The grain and grass fields look well
since the late rains.

Some of our farmers are through planting corn.

Price of eggs are 16 cts. and butter
22 cts. at the stores.

Allen B. Trostle, of the firm of H.
W. Trostle & Son, has gone to Philadelphia.

Misses Ellen and Madge Minter are visiting friends in Hanover.

Miss Alice Sheely, of Philadelphia,
is a visitor here.

Rev. T. C. Hesson attended the commencement exercises at Lancaster held on last Tuesday and Wednesday.

Miss Bertha Taylor, who spent the winter in Philadelphia, returned home
last week.

Help the Horse

No article is more useful
about the stable than Mica Axle Grease. Put a little on the spindles before you "hook up"—it will help the horse, and bring the load home quicker.

MICA AXLE GREASE

Keeps well—better than any other grease. Coats the axle with a hard smooth surface of powdered mica which reduces friction. Ask the dealer for Mica Axle Grease.
